

Backyard chicken hen permits are required before one can legally own and keep chicken hens in non-agricultural zoning districts in the City of Longmont. This form must be filled out in its entirety prior to being issued a backyard chicken hen permit. Please read the requirements for keeping backyard chickens and if you have questions, please contact Ben Ortiz at (303) 774-4725. Chicken hen permits are issued on a one-time basis. Annual renewal fees are not required.

Chicken Coop Considerations
Do you intend on using a coop that was in existence prior to February 1, 2009?
Yes: <input type="checkbox"/>	No: <input type="checkbox"/>
If yes AND the coop is closer than Six (6') feet to any side and/or rear property line, you must have written consent from the adjacent property owner(s). In the event of a complaint about the placement of your coop, you must provide the letter from the adjacent property owner agreeing to its placement. No other set back variances for coops built after February 2009 shall be granted even with written approval from the adjacent property owner. Please attach the letters from the property owners adjacent to where the coop is to be kept to your permit so that it may be presented to a Code Enforcement Inspector in the event it is requested.
Free Ranging Chickens Considerations
Do you intend on allowing your chickens to free range?
Yes: <input type="checkbox"/>	No: <input type="checkbox"/>
If yes, then you must have written consent from all abutting property owners. In the event of a complaint over free-ranging chickens, you will be asked to supply a Code Enforcement Inspector with written proof from all of your abutting neighbors that chickens may free-range in the backyard of your property. Please attach the letters from the abutting property owners to your permit so that they may be presented to a Code Enforcement Inspector in the event they are requested.
Permit Submittal Requirements
1. $30.00 permit fee (cash, credit card, or check payable to "City of Longmont")
2. Signed and dated backyard chicken hen permit application
