SAVE WATER AND SAVE YOUR WATERWAYS

Irrigation of outdoor landscaping is the largest use of water in the City. Reducing the water you use for irrigation leaves more water for the future and saves you money.

Some of the things that can be done to conserve water can also reduce the pollution in our ponds, rivers and creeks. Any water that goes into the soil will not end up on driveways, sidewalks, streets or gutters where it can carry pollutants to the storm sewers. The storm sewers all discharge to our waterways, including Left Hand Creek and St. Vrain Creek, without any treatment.

You can save water, save money and help the environment by:

- Making sure your sprinkler system does not waste water
- Using plants that are adapted to our climate
- Preparing your soil with organic materials
- Using landscaping features that allow water from both sprinklers and rainfall to soak into the ground instead of running off

➤ The City, in partnership with the Center for ReSource Conservation, offers several programs to help you reduce your outdoor water use. The number is limited and it's first come, first served. Call the Center for Resource Conservation at 303-999-3820 x217 or visit ConservationCenter.org.

Garden in a Box.

This is a professionally designed xeriscape garden kit that includes water-conserving plants and a "plant-by-number" plan.

Automatic Sprinkler System Audits.

A sprinkler system inspector will take soil samples, evaluate your system and watering schedule, measure the water output, look for leaks, identify problems and recommend improvements.

➤ Here are some things you can do to help water soak into the soil instead of running off and carrying sediment and other pollutants into the storm drains.

Create a drainage way, or swale, that directs stormwater away from your house to landscaped areas and allows it to soak into the soil.

Use the proper sprinkler types and adjust them so that they water the landscaping and not the sidewalk, street or driveway.

Consider using permeable pavements for your garden walkways.

Add organic materials to your soil before planting so that the soil can retain more water. Soils in this area can take up to three cubic yards of organic material (such as compost) for every 1000 square feet.
